

Our aim is to maintain standards above those strictly required by law

Valleymount Foods actively promotes food safety awareness among our employees through appropriate and continuing training and communication.

Our food workers have been trained in food safety, and have received certificates from the Environmental Health Officer Association. All have successfully completed the Primary Course in Food Hygiene.

Valleymount Foods provides adequate food safety resources including appropriate premises, equipment and hygiene facilities to ensure we remain above the standard required by the relevant food safety legislation.

We are committed to our own regular internal audit of our food safety procedures, and strive to maintain our record of 100% compliance with external food safety audits.

---

David McCann

